LODGE ANNOUNCES WORLD ACCORD ON PACIFIC PROBLEM SHOWN BY TREATY

Senators Immediately Begin Debate of Provisions of
New Pact

RIGHTS OF SIGNATORS
GIVEN GUARANTEES

Success of Naval Holiday Proposals Now Considered
Almost Certain

(International News Service)

CONTINENTAL HALL, Washington, Dec. 10.—Formal announcement was made to the world today that the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France have entered into a new world treaty, designed to protect each other's interests in the Pacific and to end for at least ten years
the menace of war in those waters.

Under the terms of the treaty the
four powers agree:

1. To respect each other's insular possessions in the Pacific and to submit disputes that may arise to common conference for adjustment and consideration.

2. If the rights of either of the signatory powers are threatened by another power the signatories of the treaty will confer together for the purpose of taking action, either separately or jointly.

3. The treaty shall remain in force for ten years, subject to the rights of any one of the powers to terminate
it upon one year's notice.

4. Upon ratification of the treaty
by the constitutional agencies of each country, the Anglo-Japanese alliance
shall be terminated.

Upon Senator Henry Cabot Lodge,
the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and the bitter foe
of the League of Nations evolved the duty of making the announcement to the fourth plenary session of the conference.

In a brief speech he read the terms
of the treaty entered into to a breathless audience which included many senators who later will be called upon
to ratify the words he enunciated.
Senator Lodge called attention to the extreme simplicity of the treaty, which is only 400 words. He also called attention specifically to the fact that there is no provision in the simple document which pledges the powers
concerned to go to each other's aid
with armies and navies if they should be attacked.

The treaty merely provides, Senator Lodge pointed out, that if one of the parties is attacked, then the others
will communicate with each other
fully and frankly in order to arrive at an understanding regarding the most efficient measures to be taken.

The United States entered upon the agreement with but one reservation,
that is that the negotiations now being conducted privately between Japan and the United States over the question of Yap and other mandate islands
of the Pacific, south of the equator, are successfully concluded. What will happen if those conversations are not satisfactorily concluded, Senator Lodge did not say. The fact that the United States publicly announced its participation in the treaty was taken to mean that no fear is felt on this score.

The fact that Senator Lodge, himself, chairman of the committee on foreign relations and majority leader
of the senate, announced completion of the treaty was regarded as an adroit move on the part of the administration to allay senatorial opposition. That it will be ratified by the senate probably next week, is virtually certain.

Sensor Lodge was applauded by the galleries when he concluded reading the terms of the treaty.

Within 15 minutes after Lodge had finished speaking, Rene Viviani, head of the French delegation, addressed
the conference and announced that France unreservedly approved the treaty. After Viviani had announced France's acceptance of the pact, A. J.
Balfour took the floor and formally accepted it on behalf of Great Britain.

HERE ARE TERMS OF NEW TREATY BETWEEN THE FOUR POWERS FOR BRINGING PEACE IN PACIFIC

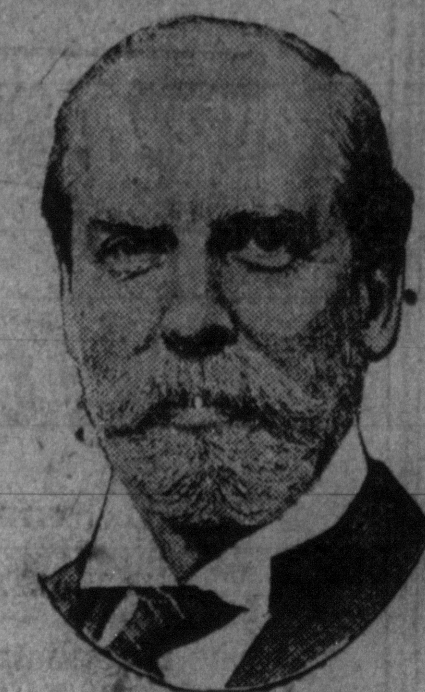

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—With one swift stroke of the four great powers of the world today kicked the obnoxious Anglo-Japanese alliance into the international ash
heap and substituted in its stead
a short document of 390 words
which is designed to end for ten years, probably for a great deal
longer, the over-hanging menace of war in the Pacific.

The treaty entered into by the United States, the British Empire,
Japan and France follows:

Draft treaty: The United States
of America, the British Empire, France and Japan. (Terms agreed upon December 9, 1921.)

The United States of America,
the British Empire, France and Japan, with a view to the preservation of the general peace and the maintenance of their rights in relations to their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific Ocean, have determined to conclude a treaty to this effect and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries, the President of the United States of America, His Majesty the King of the United Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland of the British Dominions Beyond the Sea, Emperor of India and for the Dominion of Canada, for the Commonwealth of Australia, for the Dominion of New Zealand, for India; the President

SECRETARY HUGHES

of the French Republic; His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, who,
having communicated their full powers bound in good and due
form, have agreed as follows:

1. The high contracting parties agree as between themselves to respect their rights in relation to their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific Ocean. If there should develop between any of the high contracting parties a controversy,
arising out of any Pacific question

and involving their said rights,
which is not satisfactorily settled
by diplomacy and is likely to effect
the harmonious accord now happily existing between them, they shall invite the other high contracting parties to a joint conference to which the whole subject
will be referred for consideration
and adjustment.

2. If the said rights are threatened by the aggressive action of any other, the high contracting parties shall communicate with one another fully and frankly in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken jointly or separately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation.

3. This agreement shall remain in force for ten years from the time it shall take effect, and after the expiration of said period it shall continue to be in force subject to the right of any of the high contracting parties to terminate it upon twelve months notice.

4. This agreement shall be ratified as soon as possible in accordance with the constitutional methods of the high contracting parties
and shall take effect upon the deposit of the ratification, which shall take place at Washington, and thereupon the agreement between Great Britain and Japan, which was concluded at London, on July 13, 1911, shall terminate.

KIWANIS MINSTREL WILL BE A GREATER SUCCESS THAN EVER

The Kiwanis Minstrel this year promises to be an even greater success than that given last year. The cast has been diligently and faithfully
working for the past few weeks and
this week will see the efforts whipped into definite and final shape.

There are a number of well known local artists, who are giving of their time and talent. Mrs. W. K. McNeil, who needs no introduction to Albany
and Decatur people, has been training
the chorus. A knowledge of Mrs. Mc-Neil is sufficient guarantee that anything she undertakes will be successfully and well done. In addition
Mrs. McNeil has an orchestra to help her in a proper rendition of the various musical numbers. Such well known singers as B. B. Pickens, Cy Graham, Mark McDonald and D. G.
Perkins have on so many occasions demonstrated their ability that it becomes only necessary to say that they are doing their part to make this second annual Minstrel the great success
it deserves to be.

Great care has been exercised to provide the newest and latest costumes. The order has been placed with an exclusive Chicago house and theater-goers will see a beautifully set stage. In fact no detail is being overlooked in order that local patrons
of the theatre may have their fondest
wish satisfied by a high class show.
If you doubt this, take for instance,
the end men. Everybody knows that Ernest Young, John Green and Marvin Rankin are always a scream, and they will be no exception this year. The appearance of these three men alone
is sufficient to guarantee an evening
of fun and laughter.

This is one entertainment that is not run for profit. The Kiwanis Club itself gets not a penny of the proceeds
and not a cent is paid to any individual connected with the production.
All talent is donated and the proceeds
are to be used for providing a Christmas Tree for worthy poor children and dispensing other charity to needy. No one can tell how much good the money thus raised last year
did and by the same token no one knows the measure of good that may accrue from this. No citizen is asked to donate. They will get their money's worth and their dollar will do double duty.

The specialty numbers to be presented by a group of beautiful local girls under the direction of Mrs. J. R.
Daniell, will be one of the entertain-
ment's attractive features.

NOTED ORCHESTRA MAY BE BROUGHT HERE BY SHRINERS

The Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, one of the nation's most famous musical organizations, may be brought to the Twin Cities this season through the efforts of the Tennessee Valley Shrine Club.

A called meeting of the Shrine club will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the Central National bank, Second avenue, to discuss the possibility of bringing this orchestra here and to ascertain whether or not financial arrangements can be completed for the project.

It was pointed out that the Twin Cities never had been able to hear the more famous musical artists because there was no auditorium large enough
here to seat an audience of sufficient numerical strength to raise the financial guarantee necessary. The Princecess now is said to be large enough
to seat an audience which could pay
the necessary expense.

INTERESTING SHOW FOR WORTHY CAUSE AT LOCAL THEATRE

The Fiddlers' Contest, under auspices of the Eastern Star, on Monday evening at the Princess Theatre will no doubt be witnessed by a large audience. Those who will appear as fiddlers, dancers and readers are among the most accomplished people in these cities in the several lines and the performance promises to be a big success.
The ladies of the Eastern Star have worked faithfully to insure a most interesting evening and have drawn upon the best talent here. Fifty cents is the price of admission all over the house. No reserved seats. One hundred and thirty-five prizes will be awarded contestants.

FURTHER CHARGES MADE BY WATSON BEFORE SENATORS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—A statement from William H. Hayward, district attorney in New York, stating that an officer of his regiment had shot and killed a private in France in August, 1918, was offered as evidence
this afternoon by Senator Tom Watson, Democrat of Georgia, in connection with his investigation of charges
that American soldiers were indiscriminately killed by army officers in France.

Watson today submitted to the committee about 100 letters and affidavits,
many dealing with alleged brutalities
including the hanging of soldiers by their thumbs or arms to a limb or beam, with only their toes touching the ground.

Many charges that soldiers were shot, either by their officers or at the command of such officers, also were introduced.

W. L. Stephens, of Beuna Vista,
Va., declared in a letter that a soldier in France was killed because he was an objector and asked to be allowed to testify. That a soldier was shot at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., without trial on order of a Colonel Jackson, was the charge made in a letter from E.
B. Meadows, of Bowden, Ga. The son of Mrs. M. Wolfe was shot to death in France without trial, is the charge made by Mrs. Wolfe, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

TWO DEAD AND TWO WOUNDED BY MOB

JACKSON, Ky., Dec. 10.—Jailer
Albert Allen and his son, Deputy Robert Allen, are dead and Mrs. Margaret Allen and Mrs. Mary Allen,
wives of the jailer and deputy jailer,
are perhaps fatally wounded tonight
following a mob's attempt to take Al Biggsby and Art Watt, two convicted murderers from the Breathitt county jail, with the intention of lynching them.

Members of the mob fired on Allen,
his son, wife and daughter-in-law
when they tried to prevent the move.

SOUTHERN GRANTS A NEW FREIGHT RATE WHICH MEANS MUCH TO INDUSTRIES HERE

In Transit Privileges Will Become Effective on January 1, 1922

TWIN CITIES, PLACED ON OTHERS' LEVELS

No Charge to Decatur, Enables Local Plants to Compete

Second only in consideration to the Muscle Shoals project, as a means whereby the Twin Cities may become entwined in the grinding wheels of industry, is the lowering of freight rates and the improving of transportation facilities in connection with this territory.

One of the greatest steps toward accomplishing this end has been obtained through the efforts of the Decatur Cornice and Roofing company,
in the form of a fabricating-in-transit privilege granted over the Southern railroad at Decatur, whereby carloads
of structural iron such as angles,
bars, beams, columns, etc., may be drawn from producing points in the north, east and south through the gateways of Louisville, Cincinnati, Potomac Yard, Va., and Birmingham, and stopped over for the purpose of bending, bolting, drilling, cutting,
sawing, etc., and forwarded to points of destination on the through rate plus a charge of three and one-half cents per one hundred pounds
for the transit privilege.

A carload of steel can be shipped from Pittsburgh, Pa., stopped at Decatur, all necessary work done ready for constructing and forwarded to destination at El Dorado, Ark., for the rate of ninety-three and one-half cents, while it has been costing the rate of sixty-five and one-half cents
to Decatur and sixty-three and one-half beyond or one dollar and twenty-nine cents, or a saving of twenty-five per cent on the rate.

The same material can be shipped from Birmingham, stopped at Decatur for fabricating, and shipped to Memphis, Tenn., for twenty-three and one-half cents, or three and one-half cents cheaper than the present rate
from Birmingham to Decatur, or a saving of one hundred and five per cent of the present rate.

On January 1, 1922, the effective date of this privilege, the Twin Cities
will be placed on a parity with Birmingham and Atlanta, the largest industrial cities of the South. Immediate action will be taken to secure this privilege over the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Patterson Says Bonds Will Pass

Hon. A. G. Patterson, after attending to official business at different points in the Tennessee Valley, returned to his home at Montgomery
Saturday night.

Mr. Patterson visited this week the counties of Lauderdale, Colbert, Jackson and Madison, and in speaking of the $25,000,000 road bond issue to a Daily reporter, said: "In the counties visited I find the people as a rule
very much in favor of the issue, and failed to find anywhere organized opposition to it. In fact, the sentiment in some of the counties visited, they are a little irritated that it has been deferred so long. Everything augurs well for the bond issue," said Mr. Patterson.

MISSION REPORTS HEARD BY DISTRICT CHURCH LEADERS

Following his appearance, as conference Missionary-Centenary Secretary at the quarterly meeting of the Methodist churches of the Decatur district just closed, Rev. J. A. J. Brock will preach at the First Methodist church tonight, occupying the pulpit
of Rev. Geo. M. Davenport, the pastor.

Rev. Brock was for a number of years pastor of the Central Methodist church of Albany. His headquarters are now in Nashville, where he looks after the interests of the North Alabama conference in connection with foreign missions and the Centenary mission fund.

Rev. Brock introduced the principal speaker of the last session of the district conference which was held in the First Methodist church, the Rev. Dr. W. B. Ricks of Nashville,
General Secretary of the entire Centenary Movement for the Southern Methodist church. In speaking of the world wide progress of missions,
as supported by the Centenary movement, among other interesting facts brought out by Dr. Ricks, was that in the last year 16,000 new Christian converts were reported from the country of Korea alone. Dr. Ricks said that he had just completed a tour of the entire connection of the Southern church, from San Francisco to the Atlantic ocean, and that everywhere he had noticed churches
being enlarged and annexes built.

Preceding Dr. Ricks, Rev. Dr. S. L.
Debbis, Christian Educational Secretary for the North Alabama conference made an address setting forth
the claims and purposes of the de-nominal colleges of the church.

Assessments Are Made

The district conference, also known as "the Presiding Elder's Conference," was held throughout Friday,
closing that night, the delegates returning to their homes, some that night and some Saturday morning.
Twenty-four churches were represented, scattered throughout Morgan, Limestone, Lawrence and Cullman counties. Rev. W. P. McGlawn, the Presiding Elder, acted as Moderator, and Marvin Patillo of Hartsville was Secretary. The assessments needed to meet the church budget for the ensuing year were made. And those levied against the Twin City churches indicate that the same amounts were recommended for all the churches of the district as last year.

vide their financial budget into two

which include all expenses for the

FORD REPORTED TO BE GETTING DATA ON OUTLET TO SEA VIA WARRIOR RIVER

May Purchase the Atlanta,
Birmingham and Atlantic
Railroad Quietly

REPRESENTATIVES SAID
TO BE IN MAGIC CITY

Engineers Declared to Have Investigated Every Foot of Territory

By BEN J. COPE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—An electrified railroad from Sheffield,
Ala., to Port of Birmingham, head
of navigation on the Warrior river, 21 miles from Birmingham, a branch
into Birmingham and physical connection with the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad so as to give an outlet to the Atlantic seaboard at Brunswick, Ga., and a stream of outgoing goods for export by way of the Warrior river and Mobile to Central and South America and Pacific ports
by way of the Panama Canal with European shipments going out of the port of Brunswick. Such is the ambitious program of Henry Ford as one of the incidents of his acquisition of the Muscle Shoals power plant and authority to go ahead with his colossal scheme of development here.

From a source absolutely unimpeachable came this information to the International News Service Saturday.
For more than two months, the informant declares, two of Mr. Ford's engineers have been making this city
their headquarters, investigating every question bearing upon the above program and exacting pledges of secrecy
from those who knew of their true relations with Mr. Ford.

Nothing escaped them. They have been all over the ground themselves.
They were particularly interested, it was stated, in the capabilities of the terminals at Birmingham, Port of Birmingham, on the Warrior river, to handle a heavy volume of traffic and
the possibilities of installation of additional equipment if it became necessary.

They gathered data on terminal facilities at Mobile and cost of transfer of freight from the Warrior barges to ocean-going ships. They went over the entire length of the A. B. and A.
railroad and made a minute study of the Brunswick terminals, the character of construction of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad as to durability and solidity and the possible outlay to be required in bringing the road to trunk line standards, the informant said.

Then they struck out on an air line
from Birmingham direct to Sheffield and investigated every foot of the territory between, looking to the construction of the road which would be operated by electric locomotives from power generated at the Muscle Shoals plant and if the A. B. and A. was acquired, it would result in partial or perhaps entire electrification of that road.

The Birmingham terminals would be the divergent port for shipments
to Australia, South America, Philippines, China and Japan and by water,
coastwise, through the Panama Canal
with distribution to Central America
on the west coast, Mexico, the Pacific coast of the United States and west Canada.

From Brunswick, Ga., would go shipments to Europe and the Near East. Whether or not the program of Mr. Ford embraces the acquiring of his own fleet of ships similar to the fleet owned by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company, for carrying its products to the world through the Port of Mobile was not stated by his representative, but the scheme

J. F. CAIN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF FARM BUREAU IN MORGAN AT SPECIAL MEETING

Gathering of Farmers and Business Men in Hartselle Enthusiastic

WORK EXPLAINED IN SEVERAL ADDRESSES

Albany and Hartselle C. of C.'s Thanked for Their Generous Offers

The organization of the Morgan County Farm Bureau was effected at Hartselle Saturday morning.

The meeting was called to order by Walter G. Johnson, county agent, who in a few preliminary remarks set forth the object of the meeting, its plans, etc.

Howard L. Burleson was elected temporary secretary. I. T. Quinn of Auburn, made an able address on the possibilities of the Farm Bureau, discussing its past work, and work that was sought to be accomplished by it in the future.

John Finley, one of Lauderdale's most prominent and successful farmers, a member of the Board of Directors of the Lauderdale county Farm Bureau, and also a member of the Board of Directors of the state organization, discussed briefly a few of the many problems his farmers have solved through the workings of the Farm Bureau, since the life of the organization in his county.

After several signatures of farmers were attached to the pledge certificate, the election of officers and Board of Directors was effected, as follows:

J. F. Cain, president, Somerville.

Mr. Gilchrist, 1st vice president, Albany, R. F. D.

A. H. Masterson, 2nd vice president, Hartselle.

H. L. Burleson, secretary-treasurer.

Board of Directors: E. W. Bussey, Lanes; H. M. Reid, Danville; A. D. Sample, Somerville; C. G. Stephenson, Hartselle; L. J. Hill, Priceville; J. W. Bowd, Eva; W. B. Edmondson, Albany; L. E. Sandlin, Oak Ridge.

At this point A. A. Hardage on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce of Albany, invited the Farm Bureau to establish county headquarters at Albany, offering as an inducement, the Chamber of Commerce of Albany would furnish suitable office room.

E. F. Mittweide on behalf of the Hartselle Chamber of Commerce, made a similar offer.

A resolution was offered and adopted, thanking the Chamber of Commerce of Hartselle and Albany for their generous offer, after which the President-elect made a few remarks, calling for a meeting of the Board of Directors immediately after adjournment.

Several members made enthusiastic addresses, pledging themselves to work faithfully for the success of the Farm Bureau.

At the directors meeting it was announced that Walter Potet, of the Texas Farm Bureau, would address the members of Morgan, Limestone and Lawrence counties at an early date at the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

It was the unanimous consensus of opinion that the meeting Saturday was the most enthusiastic of the kind ever held in the county for a farm movement.

Lodge Announces World Accord on Pacific Problem

Japan followed England and through Prince Tokugawa voiced her formal acceptance of the pact.

Senator Schanzer, head of the Italian delegation, followed the Prince, announcing Italy's concurrence in the proposed agreement. China announced her concurrence in the treaty, even though not a party to it.

Minister Sze said China welcomed it as designed to keep the general peace of the Pacific.

The other smaller powers, Holland, Belgium and Portugal, voiced through brief statements by their spokesmen, their approval of the pact.

When they had all finished, Secretary Hughes adjourned the conference by stating:

"We have been dealing, gentlemen, with a very simple paper. It brings to mind that all great things are simple. When this agreement takes effect, I firmly believe we will have gone further in the direction of securing permanent peace than in anything that has yet been done."

The treaty was not signed today, only initiated. The actual attachment of the signatures will be delayed until the United States and Japan conclude their private negotiations with regard to the island of Yap.

It is anticipated that Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, will lead a comparatively small group of both Republicans and Democratic irreconcilables in opposition to the treaty but not to an extent to command enough votes to block ratification. It is admitted that Borah and his associates are capable of waging a bitter verbal battle that might become protracted, although unlikely to assume proportions resembling the League of Nations fight.

Senator Lenroot was one of the Republican leaders who said they entertained no doubt but that the pact would be ratified by the senate. Considerable significance was attached to a statement by Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, who said that he would "favor any plan that would make for peace, even if it was a counterfeit of something else."

Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, said: "I am opposed to anything that would bind our government with any other government as to what we shall do in the future, but I am in favor of any agreement that will prevent war or limit armament or bring about arbitration of international disputes."

Senator McKellar, Democrat of Tennessee, said: "I am in favor of the clause which abrogates the present Anglo-Japanese alliance."

Senator Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts, said: "I personally will welcome any arrangement in the way of a mutual or joint treaty which would settle all far eastern questions and eliminate them as a source of misunderstanding and prevent possible war."

X'MAS SEASON APPROACHES

With the Christmas season almost here, Albany and Decatur were preparing to welcome home the large number of local boys and girls who are away attending various institutions of learning and as a part of the observance of the season of good will, a number of social events are planned for the holidays.

Many of the local social and card clubs discontinued their meetings this week, until after Christmas, while others will hold their final pre-holiday meetings this week and then adjourn until the New Year.

As a forerunner of the numerous Christmas functions, a dance was being planned for next week and it was expected it would be followed by many more during the Christmas season, several of them being given in honor of the students enjoying their mid-year vacations.

The Christmas season began to make its presence felt this week in the decorations and score cards at several of the bridge club meetings and the presence here already of several Christmas visitors brought the usual gay Christmas tide a bit nearer.

Following the usual local custom it was expected that an unusually gay Christmas season would be capped by a Christmas dance, given just after Christmas Day. Several dances are planned in neighboring communities and large numbers of the dancing contingent from Albany and Decatur will attend.

Despite prospects of an unusually brilliant social season during the Yuletide, the unfortunates of the community will not be forgotten and several of the social clubs are planning relief campaigns to carry the message of Good Cheer into the homes of the city's more unfortunates. Principal among these movements is the Kiwanis Charity Minstrel to be given at the Princess. In the cast are a number of the most prominent residents of Albany and Decatur. The proceeds will be used to have a community Christmas tree for deserving kiddies, who otherwise might be overlooked by Old Santa.

PROGRESS IN MUSIC IN WORLD'S ARTS

At this time much interest is evinced in the world's progress in the arts and sciences. Music, means so much in mental development and general culture that it has of course become the most popular of the arts. The history of music in the opera begins early with the man who first used the percussion instruments (drums and tom-toms) to accompany his primitive chants and dances. The second step shows the first use of wind instruments that in later years have been duplicated in brass and other metals. Later the gentler side of man's heart was awakened and we find him making an effort to reproduce sounds of nature herself by means of the reed instrument, made from sources provided by nature.

Church Fostered Effort

In these early days the church was quick to recognize music and by the end of the sixteenth century a great instrumental school was founded at Venice by Adrian Willaert. Out of this was recognized the support the instruments contributed to choral work that was then in its infancy. Of course the birth of the opera gave orchestration its greatest impetus. The opera began with a group of musical amateurs at Florence. Vincenzo Galilei, father of the great astronomer and two professional musicians, Claudio Monteverde (1567-1643) was father of the violin for he introduced the violin into the orchestra, using the tremolo to represent the excitement first felt during a duel scene, while the double basses represented sword thrusts. Musical iconoclasts of the times were quick to recognize the dependence of any publication on the now growing orchestra and declared loudly for music. Then cities of note began competing in the production of varied instruments.

An instructive line of thought might be the changes wrought by the modern improved mechanical instrumentation of the orchestra, such as the introduction of valved brass horns, keyed flutes, clarionets, oboes, bassoons, etc., the single and double action harps, and other changes that were not dreamed of a century ago, and now give us a wealth of compass, power, color and effect of tone which at the renaissance of the opera were not within the reach of composers of that period. To get away from history, another most interesting line of thought might be the wonderful improvement of stage settings, and scenic effects made possible by the present method of mechanical appliances and electrical system of light and color that have "saved" many a modern so-called "opera" whose score was worthless and devoid of what was by courtesy supposed to be a plot.

OSCAR UNDERWOOD, IN LETTER TO LOCAL CITIZEN, DECLARES SUPPORT FOR FORD

Denies That He Opposes Detroit
Man's Offer for Muscle Shoals

WILL WORK FOR BID
BEFORE THE SENATE

Alabama's Senior Senator Explains His Position to William McDermott

Unequivocal endorsement of Henry Ford as the best choice possible for owner and operator of Muscle Shoals and a pledge to support the Ford proposition, is contained in a recent letter by Senator Oscar W. Underwood, directed to William McDermott, a well known citizen of the Twin Cities and an L. & N. switchman. Mr. McDermott had written to Senator Underwood, expressing his wish that Mr. Ford be awarded the great contract, and at the same time made it plain to Senator Underwood that some seemed to fear he, Mr. Underwood, was not very favorably impressed with the Ford offer, and that he might not support it with enthusiasm when it came before congress. Senator Underwood's reply to Mr. McDermott, as touching the Muscle Shoals proposition, is a complete refutation of any charges of hostility to Ford on the part of the senior senator from Alabama.

By request Mr. McDermott furnished all of the letter in question relating to Muscle Shoals as follows:

My Dear Mr. McDermott:
Received your letter in reference to Mr. Ford's offer to purchase the government property at Muscle Shoals. I note what you say in reference to the rumor that I am opposed to Mr. Ford's offer. Of course this rumor is utterly false and without foundation. I think it would be a great thing for Alabama if Mr. Ford acquires this property, for, in addition to building the dam, he is likely to spend a great deal of money in North Alabama in the development of his own business, and I hope that the Secretary of War will look with favor upon his proposal. The reason for the delay is that Mr. Ford's engineers and the government engineers have not been able to agree on proper terms for the purchase. That is matter of a technical nature, which I can in no way influence. If Mr. Ford's offer is accepted by our government, it will have to come through congress for necessary legislation and I shall then support the proposition and work for the development of this project as I have done for many years past.

With kindest regards,
I am cordially yours,
O. W. UNDERWOOD.

Foch Sends His Greetings to State

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—Marshal Foch, the idolized leader of the combined allied armies, passed through Montgomery on his special train about four o'clock Friday morning but it is not recorded that he even turned over in his Pullman berth during the fifty minutes his train remained in the union station.

However, Montgomery's appreciation of the services of the man who was head of all the armies opposed to Germany was shown, even though the citizens could not greet him. A committee of the Chamber of Commerce placed on the special train a quantity of Montgomery roses and a message of good feeling and appreciation which were delivered him when he arose from his slumber.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Discusses the Use of Persian Embroidery on Suits.

ONE day this week I went with one of my newspaper friends to a meeting of society women, who were discussing some of the acute social problems of the day. All the women were beautifully dressed, and that was the reason why Doris Tremayne thought I'd like to go with her.

For some time we listened to various speeches from women who really achieve much for others, despite their many social engagements. Then, during an interlude, Doris said:

"That's the sort of suit I should like if I could afford one for every day of the week."

"Which do you mean?" I questioned, for I had not been following the direction of Doris's glances.

"That blue velvet affair with the blue duvetyne skirt," replied Doris, indicating the original of the pictured model.

"Oh, do you like that?" I questioned, for my taste runs to more severely tailored models.

"I certainly do," was the enthusiastic answer of my friend.

"It's rather pretty," I conceded, after studying it for a few moments.

"Rather pretty, you grudgingly concede," said Doris. "I think it's stunning, especially for a young woman. Don't you like the color, if the style doesn't appeal to you?"

"Yes, I must say I admire the color immensely," I announced, "for I'm always partial to blue."

"I think the combination of the velvet jacket and the duvetyne skirt is interesting," said Doris.

"Yes, and the circular skirt gives a chance to introduce some lovely color," I remarked.

"Yes," assented Doris, "that little bind of Persian embroidery about the hem is pleasing, and the skirt is lined with red."

"That's so," I replied, as the wearer of this appealing costume walked toward another of her friends, and thus revealed that the front was shorter than the back.

"I suppose it's really imperative to have a lining in a circular skirt," commented Doris.

"Yes, for it falls in ripples about the figure, and a hem-lining is one of the best ways of insuring neatness. Of course, it could be lined in matching fabric, but I think the contrasting color is better," I said.

"How do you like the Persian embroidery?" I questioned, as I noted that the upper part of the frock was elaborately adorned with this fashionable decoration.

"I think it's gorgeous, and I was just wondering if I couldn't take an old shawl I have and use it to trim my new duvetyne frock," said Doris.

"That would be beautiful," I exclaimed, "for Persian embroidery is being used on so many different articles of dress. Even the hats sometimes show a touch of this in their trimming."

"Then that settles it," answered Doris. "I shall have enough not only to make the upper part of my frock, but I believe I could cut a smart little turban from it also."

"I like the way the velvet jacket is bound with the Persian trimming," I declared.

"It is attractive, and helps to make the coat and skirt harmonize, while those insets on the sleeves are striking," commented Doris.

"Don't you admire the blue velvet hat with its trimming of chenille in Persian colors?" I asked.

"I do, indeed, and I shall model mine on the same lines, for I'm very fond of small hats in winter," said Doris, as the conference was again called to order.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Are You Interested in Saving Work by Having a Knife for Every Need?

EVERY kitchen should be well supplied with good cutlery. A knife for every need means efficiency, time and labor saved, and food economized by being cleanly cut instead of mangled and wasted.

The kitchen drawer should be prepared to receive the knives by being lined with a cotton flannel pad, which can be easily removed for washing occasionally. A compartment easily put into the drawer will separate the large from the small knives, and the extra tools may be kept by themselves.

If the kitchen drawer seems an unsafe place for the sharp knives, then make a cotton-flannel knife-case by folding the flannel, after hemming an edge, deeper than the blade, and stitching at the right width to slip in the blades. Hang on the closet door or other convenient place by small brass rings, and sew a brass ring at each lower corner to hook the case to, so that it does not swing when filled with knives.

The scalloped bread knife is a first necessity and if kept bright and clean it is a self-sharpening. Next is the heavy, broad-bladed butcher knife to use for all heavy meat cutting. This should be cleaned and sharpened carefully after each using. A roast meat carver has an eight or nine inch blade and a pointed tip. A knowledge of the location of bones, joints and heavy cartilage in carving will aid in keeping the knife in trim. A poor carver is hard on knives.

The best knife for cold meat carving is one having a slender and slightly flexible blade and a good gripping handle. Cold meat should always be sliced on a board, so that the fork may hold it without allowing it to slip. A French carver or boning knife is one having a rather wide but tapering blade, and the sharp point cuts away to the very end—a desirable point in boning birds.

A general utility knife is needed in all kitchens. This knife has a five-inch blade and a gripping handle and is useful in cutting up the coarser vegetables, such as pumpkins, melons and so on, to trim steaks and ham, and to cut up stew meats. It also is used after the manner of a hashette, to chop carrots, parsley, eggs and other things for garnishes or salads. This knife should be kept bright and sharp always.

A slender, limber-bladed knife having a round end is for cake-slicing and lifting. This knife and a limber spatula are a necessary part of the cake-baker's outfit and are useful in candy-making as well. The small vegetable knife with a pointed end is best for potatoes. The small knife with a round end for onions. Wing scissors and plain and fancy steel skewers should be kept as bright and as sharp as the knives.

Good cooks demand sharp knives and should have them. They are tools of their trade and should be given as much care as any good mechanic gives his tools. The emergency pick is a quick sharpener for the heavier knives.

The stainless steel knives for fruit and vegetables are invaluable to the woman who does her own work, in saving her hands from unnecessary stains. The scalloped-bladed paring knife is good for paring cucumbers, to leave a fancy edge that looks pretty in salads. There are several kinds of grapefruit knives, but the straight, slender-bladed one does the work nicely and is simpler to use than that with the curved blade. A semi-circular heavy chopping knife is useful for many purposes, as are a curved butcher knife and a small cleaver. In the country there should be a small chopping-block and three permanent meat-hooks above it on the back porch or in the cellar. Buying in larger quantities than city people do, it is often part of the cook's duty to trim and cut up meat and poultry, so that block and sharp cleaver are necessities.

Rev. McWhirter Returns From a Historic Meeting Christian Church

Rev. J. H. McWhirter, pastor of the First Christian church, returned Saturday from Louisville, Ky., and will occupy his pulpit as usual this morning and tonight.

Rev. McWhirter stated that his church held a three days congress in the Broadway Christian church the last week and that 750 delegates were registered from all parts of the nation. He said that the purpose of his church council was primarily to make a solemn protest "against destructive criticism of the text of the Bible, and against the practice of so-called 'open membership' in some of the individual churches in America including some recently established churches in China."

The conference took vigorous action against the theory of evolution as subversive of the Christian religion, against the attempts of scholars to "mutilate the Bible," on the ground that nothing should be added to or taken from the Scriptures. The Virgin birth of Christ, was strongly upheld.

The basis of action in regard to foreign mission churches, was a resolution passed at a previous conference in St. Louis, Mo., dealing with liberalism in the church. That resolution was called the "Ledbury Resolution" after its author, and ordered that the foreign mission board of the entire church make an investigation of the charged practice of "open membership" in the new churches in China. Rev. McWhirter said that near the close of the congress on the last night, a dramatic situation was caused, when Rev. Frank Garrett, a returned missionary from China was put on the stand to testify as to whether or not "open membership" was practiced by him, open membership being construed to mean "the reception of new converts or members from other churches, without requiring the usual rites practiced by the Christian church in America."

Mr. Garrett, according to Rev. Mc-

Whirter said that while he has not as yet practiced "open membership," that he did not wish to say what would be his course in the future.

"At this juncture," said Rev. McWhirter, "one of the aged ministers of the church, Dr. Z. P. Swiney, a director of the foreign mission board, advanced to the platform where Rev. Garrett was, and required of him a 'yes' or 'no' answer, as to whether or not in the future he would practice 'open membership, and that finally he returned missionary agreed not to receive candidates for membership into the church unless they conformed to the usual rites and ceremonies."

Rev. McWhirter said that Rev. E. L. Crystal, of Louisville, presided at the Congress, and that among the speakers were Revs. W. P. Couch, Shelbyville, Ky.; Mark Collins, Lexington, Ky.; J. H. O. Smith, Pittsburg, Kan.; S. F. Lattin, Bedford, Ind.; W. H. Brooks, Columbus, Ohio; H. F. Luntz, W. N. Briney, Louisville, Ky.; Prof. Ralph Record, formerly of the Transylvania, Lexington, Ky.; C. V. Dunn, Louisville, Wallace Tharp, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. P. C. Campbell, Springfield, Ill.; T. M. Tindler, Middleburg, Ky.; O. E. Gully, Danville, Ill.

Rev. McWhirter said that Rev. R. C. Foster, a Harvard graduate, but who had stood firm against modernism as regards the Bible, made one of the most inspiring addresses of the conference on the last night, his subject being "The Lordship of Christ." All the sessions opened with thirty minute devotional exercises, and according to Rev. McWhirter, the best of the fellowship prevailed despite numerous lively discussions between the delegates. He said that the congress went on record solidly against too much centralization of power, against "destructive Bible criticism" and against the reception of members according to the "open membership" practice.

YOUR HEALTH

What "Endocarditis" Is and the Ways to Recovery

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

NO matter how remote and protected any part of your body may be, it is subject to disease. Even the lining of the heart is liable to become affected. The lining membrane of this important organ is called the "endocardium." It covers all the interior cavities and forms the valves of the heart.

Here is a part of the body which is never quiet. Day and night, year in and year out, the heart must pulsate, no part of it is ever at rest. The worst thing about inflammation of this tissue—"endocarditis," as it is called—is that particles of inflammatory tissue may collect on the membrane and valve, be loosened by the blood stream and heart action, and be swept off into the blood current.

These particles are called "vegetations" because they seem to grow out of the tissue as tiny plants grow out of the soil. The vegetations may consist merely of inflammatory material, or they may contain bacteria capable of producing inflammation and pus formation. When the particles are detached they are carried by the blood to the brain, kidneys, spleen or elsewhere. They reach a blood-vessel of small size, act there as a plug, and prevent the blood from going farther. The part supplied by that blood-vessel dies for want of nourishment. This makes a splendid soil for the growth of the bacteria, and pretty soon an abscess forms.

Such particles are called "emboli," and the condition produced is "embolism." Embolism of the brain, or any part of the body is a serious affair.

Endocarditis is a common complication of rheumatism. As a matter of fact, it never appears as a primary and independent condition. It is always secondary to some other trouble.

Tonsillitis, scarlet fever, pneumonia, chickenpox and measles are sometimes complicated by it. Tonsillitis, especially, is prone to be followed by inflammation of the lining of the heart. This is a disease which should never be lightly considered. Tonsillitis is followed too frequently by rheumatism and heart disease.

The symptoms of endocarditis are not conspicuous. Pain or discomfort is rare. The action of the heart is increased, and sometimes irregular. There may be pronounced palpitation. Fever is usually present.

During an attack of rheumatic fever, which has been progressing favorably, an unexpected increase in temperature may indicate involvement of the endocardium.

It is not easy to determine the presence of the difficulty. Careful examination by an expert physician is needed to make sure whether the condition is present or not.

Rest is an essential part of the treatment. Anything like violent exercise or emotion, exciting the heart's action, may cause the rushing blood stream to carry them to distant parts.

It is a good rule to require all persons who have had acute illness, particularly the diseases which are complicated by the cause of endocarditis, to take a long rest before returning to work. Unfortunately, this privilege is denied many bread-winners, but in the long run, it is economical.

Answers to Health Questions
MRS. A. R. Q.—My 3-months-old baby sleeps with her eyes only half closed. She sleeps very little—sometimes only five or ten minutes at a time. Kindly advise me what the lack of sleep is due to.

A.—Your baby's lack of sleep may be due to improper method of feeding. You should ask your doctor to consider your feeding methods and change them if they're not exactly right.
MRS. A. R. Q.—My 1-year-old boy is suffering from whooping cough, and a doctor prescribed a bottle of medicine for him. I read one of your answers regarding this condition, and you stated it must run its own course. Please advise me what to do.
A.—Some of the symptoms a patient has at the same time he has whooping cough can be cured or relieved by treatment. This is what your doctor may be doing.

"WORKING WOMAN" Q.—I have varicose veins very bad in my left leg, and some in my right leg. Is an operation the only cure for this condition? Will continued standing make them worse?
A.—In some cases of varicose veins an operation is necessary. You should keep off your feet as much as possible. Flannel or elastic bandages are often beneficial.

W. D. Q.—I am a boy 14 years old, and for the past eight years have been wearing glasses for far-sightedness. Will you please tell me if this trouble can be cured?
A.—This condition is due to the shape of the eyeball, and can be corrected by wearing properly-fitted glasses.

MR. O. O. Q.—Will fifteen grains of bicarbonate of soda taken continuously after every meal be harmful to a person suffering from acute indigestion?
A.—Yes. You should be on a diet. If you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply I will forward you full particulars on this condition.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally, if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. R. S. Copeland, in care of this office.

STATEMENT FROM THE MAYOR OF ALBANY, ALA.

At a meeting of the members of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, Friday night, December 2nd, after discussions of various subjects of interest to the citizens of Albany, Mayor E. C. Payne was called upon to make a statement to the meeting, in explanation of the delay in the completion of the Street paving in Albany. After the Mayor's statement it was voted by the Members of the Chamber of Commerce present, that this statement be given to the public in order that the citizens of Albany might understand why the work has been stopped. The Mayor's statement follows:

"Former Mayor and City Council sold improvement bonds to the amount of $363,000.00 to W. L. Slayton and Company of Toledo, Ohio, for the purpose of paving certain streets in Albany. A contract was made with W. M. Leftwich company of Nashville for this work. A contract was also made with Messrs. Lund and Hill to represent the city as engineers to supervise and inspect the work to be done under the contract with Leftwich. When the present administration came into office, it was their duty to carry out these contracts, which were in existence. It was found however, that the original Bond issue was not sufficiently large to complete the work covered by these contracts. When the proceeds of the original Bond issue were nearly exhausted, it was necessary to stop the work temporarily until other financial arrangements could be made. In September the Mayor and other officials arranged with the American National Bank, at Nashville, to borrow $150,000.00 with which to complete the work. The latter part of October when the work was again fully organized, and contractors were in position to push the work rapidly to completion, a bill was filed by Messrs. Fletcher and Spraggins of Huntsville, and Messrs. Knight and Beard of Albany, owners of the holdings of the former Decatur Land Co., in the Circuit Court of Morgan County, which stopped the American National Bank for carrying out their agreement to furnish the funds for completion of the work. This necessarily stopped the work, leaving the city to go through the winter with a number of unfinished, muddy streets, but for this stopping of the work at that time, it would in all probability have been completed by January 1st."

The Members of the Chamber of Commerce, present, realized that the City administration is undertaking to carry out contracts which are binding on the City, and that the delays caused by this litigation, have been and will be, until terminated, very expensive to the City, in interest, and loss of use of our streets, and the inconvenience by having them in such an unfinished condition during the Winter months. The only streets that have been accepted by the City, we are advised are: Holly street (between Second and Fourth avenues), First Avenue, Gordon Drive (between Second Avenue, and Fourth Avenue) and Second Avenue between Grant street and Wheeler Park.

The City can not levy assessments against the abutting property for cost of this paving, until the work is completed as contracted for under the ordinance. The interest and other expenses caused by this delay are however piling up against the City at the rate of approximately $95.00 per day, and must necessarily some day be paid, in some way by the property owners of Albany.

Because of these conditions, and realizing that the City could not get a fair price for its School Bonds with this litigation pending, the Members of the Chamber of Commerce present, urged Mayor Payne, and the city officials to push this litigation to a speedy trial, and not allow any unavoidable delay.

W. W. RAHM,

President Albany Chamber of Commerce.

REMINISCENCES

COURT WEEK AT SOMERVILLE

Court week was always a busy week. Preparations were begun days ahead by all interests connected with it, the house was put in order by those in charge. Windows were washed, the wood-pile and chips were cleared away, buckets and dippers were provided, hitching posts put in order and everything for the big week was carefully planned.

People rode on horse-back from every section of the county, and on Monday morning of court week every available space was taken around the court house fence that would afford room to hitch a horse.

The Fowler hotel, run by Mrs. Jane Fowler, bore a reputation far and near for cuisine that met the demands elegantly of that period, and every room was taken for the week.

Lawyers attended from Huntsville, Decatur, Moulton, Hartselle, Oneonta, Blountsville and other places.

Many of the citizens in that town opened their homes to their friends who were attending court, and in our home I have seen as many as six to eight enjoying the hospitality afforded them.

The writer remembers a lively tilt that occurred between the late Hon. S. T. Wert and Judge Hamill, of Blountsville. They were opposing lawyers in a case that waxed warm. They were engaged in a lightning episode of quick wit and cutting repartee. After the smoke had cleared away, I remember how each of the principals to the word affray convulsed with laughter that spread to the entire court room, and the presiding judge was compelled to rap for order.

Judge Clark, a gifted lawyer of Lawrence county, and an orator of note, attended the court sessions there and notice that he was to make a speech attracted large crowds to the court room that taxed the capacity.

Frank M. Calloway, one of the older residents of the county at that time, and a great hunter and marksman as well, always attended court. He was frequently at our home, being a lifelong friend of my father. One morning he shouldered his gun and went out to get a wild turkey. Near the Gill creek, one-half mile west of town, turkeys were plentiful. He returned shortly after breakfast with a fine gobbler. This feat was repeated quite often by him, he remarking that he was paying his board bill by supplying wild meat.

A large delegation of the legal profession always attended from Decatur, coming in private conveyance, usually a two-horse hack, as there were no cars in that day, neither had that plan of traveling ever occurred to anyone at that time.

Monroe T. Swift, Alec Campbell, Tom Morrow, James H. Wiggins, Davis Poteet were the executors in preserving the peace of the county, they holding the office of sheriff during the period mentioned.

COLLECTORS REMIT

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Jefferson county's tax collector, James Hawkins, paid into the state treasury today $52,000 which was credited to the educational fund and will be used in the payment of November school warrants which are now due. The tax collector of Mobile county also remitted $20,000 which will be used for the same purpose.

Army Captain is Suing His Bride

Douglas Osborn, former army captain, is suing in San Francisco to divorce his Russian bride, Mrs. Marjorie Osborn, niece of Baron Rosen, the Russian statesman. They were married in Vladivostok last January. Among other things, Captain Osborn complains that his wife went without stockings during their residence in Manila. "A Russian custom," she explains. "My husband simply doesn't understand."

Judge Clayton Suggests Hiring of Solon-Lawyers

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—Judge Henry D. Clayton, of the federal court, told the spectators in his court during the trial of a case that it might be well for Alabama to hire a few lawyers for membership in the legislature. He was talking about the general tendency of the people to pass laws on every imaginable subject. He said it was almost impossible for any one, even a lawyer, to keep up with the laws because they are being enacted so fast. He said he was able to keep up with them because he was called upon to pass upon their validity. There was a time, according to Judge Clayton, when the laws passed by the legislature stood the test of the court. At that particular time, further according to Judge Clayton, Judge Clayton was a member of the legislature.

Will Make Home Here in Future

The family of C. D. Phillips, manager of the Coca Cola plant at this point, will arrive here next week to make their home. Mr. Phillips has rented a residence on Jackson street, near 8th avenue, owned by Mrs. W. H. Simpson. The Huntsville Times printed the following on the occasion of Mr. Phillips taking change of the works here:

Huntsville Boy Promoted

Having been promoted to the position of manager of the Coca Cola Bottling works at Decatur, Claude D. Phillips left this morning to take up his new duties. Aside from having been promoted to the managership, Mr. Phillips acquires a one-fourth interest in the plant. The advancement of Mr. Phillips was chronicled in the Daily Times Sunday. It seems that Claude has had constantly before him the old adage that "nothing succeeds like success," for since his beginning of an active business life in Huntsville he has been a success. That if Claude Phillips makes as many friends in Albany and Decatur as he has in Huntsville, manufacturers of drinks, other than Coca Cola, will not be long finding out there is a live wire in the Twin Cities.

EARNINGS OFF

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—During the months of July, August and September the Birmingham Waterworks company earned $10,944.44 less than they are permitted to earn under its agreement with the city of Birmingham, according to a schedule of receipts and expenses filed with the public service commission today by H. H. Horner, manager of the plant.

Meat Importations From China

Chinese meats imported into this country consist of hams and sausage. The hams are cured in a manner similar to ours, have a peculiar odor, are small, and of poor quality, judged by American tastes. The sausage is prepared from pork, and is about the size of a thin frankfurter, is hard and oily, and has an odor pronounced unpleasant to the occidental nose. These products are consumed exclusively by the Chinese, who consider them quite a delicacy.

DEMOCRATS WILL CONSIDER BARRING EVERY VOTER WHO SCRATCHED TICKET

Chief Interest in Committee Meeting Centers on This Subject

CAMPAIGN FUND MAY BE ASKED IN STATE

Republican Vote of Last Year Causes Democrats to Renew Activity

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—One subject will overshadow all others at the meeting of the state Democratic executive committee which will be held in Montgomery January 17. That will be the subject of putting up the bars against all persons who did not support the Democratic ticket in the general election last November.

Several other matters will come up, including the election of a chairman to succeed W. D. Nesbitt, who has resigned, and the making of plans for the Democratic primary which will be held in August and at which the Democratic party will nominate a candidate for governor as well as candidates for other state offices; but chief interest must necessarily center about the provision to restrict the voting privilege to Democrats who are faithful in good weather and bad.

The bars were let down by the state committee just preceding the primary of May 11, 1920. In the past it had been customary to exclude from the primary all persons who did not vote for the Democratic nominees in the preceding election or who would not have so voted had they participated at all, but because of the new conditions brought about by the ratification of the woman suffrage amendment and the return of thousands of ex-service men to the state the committee decided not to place the restriction but to invite all persons to enter the primary, participation being the pledge that the nominees of the party would receive their votes in the general election.

Many persons did come into the primary through this invitation, but reports have indicated that many did not carry out this pledge in the general election. Attention was called to this failure shortly after the general election and many newspapers urged that the state committee raise the bars again before another election. In making rules for the special Democratic primary in the fourth district for the nomination of a candidate to succeed Congressman Fred L. Blackmon, deceased, the state Democratic executive committee this year prohibited the participation of any person who did not support the Democratic ticket in the last general election. Written in the minds of Democrats of that district is the thought that at least one man was prevented from participating because there was evidence that he did not vote the Democratic ticket in the November election.

Some provision must be made by the committee whereby a campaign fund may be obtained. The heavy increase in the Republican vote last November will require a vigorous campaign in several counties. The law now permits the state committee to levy assessments against candidates, but this fund will not be large next year as indications now are that there will be few candidates in the field. It seems a certainty now that William W. Brandon will have no opposition for governor, there are few who now believe Senator Charles S. McWowell will be opposed for lieutenant governor and no one believes there will be any serious fight for the state offices. This condition is regarded as excellent for the maintenance of comity and good feeling in the party but it will not fail to leave a crimp in the treasury of the Democratic party.

Courts Conclude Busy Sessions

There were twelve convictions and sentences imposed by the circuit court that has been in session for the past several weeks.

Sentences ranging from one year and one day to twenty years was pronounced by the presiding judge Friday afternoon.

Two convictions were had in the Morgan county court, the defendants going to the Pratt Consolidated Co., the others to the penitentiary.

CUNNINGHAM ACQUITTED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Ross Cunningham, whose little sister pleaded for her brother's liberty in federal court yesterday, was acquitted of the charge of selling narcotics in violation of the Harrison federal law. Cunningham thanked Judge Henry D. Clayton and the jury for their consideration, but Judge Clayton told him he should thank his own mother, who prepared the defense for him.

Railroad Briefs About Town

Firm Belief in Santa Claus

The annual visit of Santa Claus is eagerly expected among the railroad folks. Every breeze that blows brings him nearer. That the little folks of the shop people expect him to come ahead of schedule is evidenced by a recent remark of Stanley, Jr., little son of S. C. Goidel. "Papa, I hear the wind blowing, I believe Santa Claus is coming. It sounds like the way he came last year." Among the many other wholesome faiths held in these parts, is one in a living, moving, actual Santa Claus, and the children are encouraged in the same belief.

The First Christmas Festivity

According to Jim Prosser, general lasso man for the fiddler's contest Monday night, the 12th, he has about 40 invited with plenty of acceptances in sight. "One of the contestants will be Mrs. Tom Mullins, of Tony, up near Huntsville. She fiddles with her left hand, while her husband, who is a musician, uses his right to saw with. I expect 'Dad' Glasscock, who won the largest prize at our last contest, to be on hand with several of his brothers. The famous fiddler brothers of Hartselle—I forget their names—who play the same tune on the same fiddle, are expected to be on hand with a full quota from Somerville, Trinity and the Twin Cities." As you know, the proceeds go to the Benevolent Hospital and to the Orphans Home in Montgomery.

U. S. Auditor Talks of Mr. Wilson
J. H. Warren, U. S. government accountant, has been auditing the books of the Louisville and Nashville at this point for some days, preparatory to a final settlement by the government with the roads. While in the office of Walter H. Todd, storekeeper, Mr. Warren said, speaking of Woodrow Wilson, attracted by a life-like portrait of him upon the office wall: "While in Washington recently, I chanced to sit close to Mr. Wilson at a theatre. I could not resist the conclusion that he had suffered a great stroke of paralysis, and that the next stroke would take him off. I was at the ceremonies incident to the burial of 'the unknown soldier' at Arlington. As the procession went along Pennsylvania avenue, silence of course reigned; but later the people were seen craning their necks down the avenue. As the hoof sounds of the horses pulling ex-President Wilson's carriage were heard, a scene of animation presented itself, and as the stooped form, drawn face and snow white hair of the greatest of all the war victims came in sight, an irrepressible cheer went up from the thousands along the historic avenue."

Rev. Stuckey in Eloquent Appeal

At the regular weekly gospel meeting held under the auspices of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Rev. Stuckey, pastor of the First Baptist church of Albany, preached the sermon from the text: "The way of the Ungodly shall perish." Rev. Stuckey said that such a way should be shunned because of where it led—because of its destination. He said that the companionship along said road was anything but choice. He said that said road should be deserted, because of the call of God to leave it. The preacher declared that the love illustrated in the parable of the Prodigal Son was the kind God had for all erring people. "Let the wicked forsake his way; and the righteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, who will have mercy upon him and abundantly pardon."

McCluskey Back from Montgomery

W. R. McCluskey, vice president of the Alabama Federation of Labor, was in Montgomery recently on business for organized labor and as a member of the Masonic conclave recently held at the capital city. He said he talked with J. W. Bargaineer, a past president of the state Federation of Labor, who said that the Central Labor Union of Montgomery was doing well, and the spirit of co-operation was present. Speaking of the Ford offer, Mr. McCluskey said, "I heard a man, evidently widely traveled, at the Exchange Hotel, say that there need be no fear of congress turning Ford down. Said this man, 'And he will go over the heads of congressmen, if need be, to secure the consent of the government to his great plan for Muscle Shoals.'"

The Pan-American

"It beats all how a railroad train attracts interest," said J. A. Clardy, helper in the machine shop. "Everything in the shops thought they just had to see the Pan-American make her first trip. Flying machines are not in it with a railroad train." It was learned that one of the steel coaches of the Pan-American alone cost $42,000.00, which is as much as the cost of the big Mogul engine that is used to pull the new train. Three whole trains are used in keeping the Pan-American going from Cincinnati to the Gulf. Eight engines are used. Thus it appears where the $1,000,000 cost for the train comes in. Two twin brothers, Thomas and James Burnes, on the Louisville and Nashville for nearly 50 years, bring the trains from Nashville. Another engineer, R. J. Crutchfield, is also used. Going South as far as Montgomery, Jack Frost and Jack Weissenger take them. In honor of the lightning racers, Jost dressed in brand new white overalls with a white cap and a white flower that cost a dollar and a half the first day. The train carries sleepers, two day coaches, baggage cars, a diner, and an observation car. The engine drivers are not so high as seen on the fast trains farther North, as the Pan-American is a heavy train as well as a fast one, and the very high drivers are not suitable except for light passenger work.

December as Pleasant as June

"The old Gospel hymn came true out in Lawrence county, 15 miles west of Hartselle," said E. S. Blizzard, of the planing mill. "The mountain or something shelters out there. I see The Daily tells about grapes being found recently and I see there was snow reported in Montgomery. My brother and I saw quite as strange sights out in Lawrence—cotton was in bloom, the leaves were green, and tomatoes growing right along—and they were not under cover either."

Officers and Delegates

The Carmen's officers for the next term of office are: President, E. C. Wright; Vice President, D. W. Johnson; Recording Secretary, C. J. Kent; Financial Secretary, H. C. Hutchison. Delegates to the Central Labor Union: W. R. McCluskey, H. C. Hutchison, J. B. Garrett, G. E. Clayton, and T. J. Martin. The Central Labor Union elects officers Monday night. Ed Spain, of the boiler shop, is one of the candidates for president. The Machinists take up the election of officers Monday night.

MOTHER OF SIX, TIRED OF BIRTHS, BEGS A GOTHAM COURT TO PERMIT OPERATION

In Denver there is a woman, mother of five children, who has scornfully rejected a proposal that she submit to an operation to prevent her having more children. The proposal was made so she might better care for the children she has. In New York there appeared a mother of six children, Mrs. Jessie McCarthy Antidorni, who asks that such an operation be performed on her to that she may give better care and obtain educational privileges for her brood. Mrs. Antidorni is the wife of Angelo Antidorni, a plumber's assistant. They have been married sixteen years and have had nine children, three of whom died. The father of the family has been ill for some time. Mrs. Antidorni was born in Scotland and her husband in Italy. The photo shows Mr. and Mrs. Antidorni and five of their six living children.

ARE YOU BUYING CHRISTMAS SEALS?

Every day brings a story about some hero risking his life to save someone. There is a chance for every citizen in Alabama to take part in the saving of a life, many lives, during the next few weeks, when the Christmas seals of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association are on sale.

Tuberculosis is claiming lives every day, and it is killing more persons than all of the wars of all time put together. The American loss of life during the World War 70,000. During the same period tuberculosis killed 150,000. And the death of tuberculosis is more cruel than that of war, because in battle life is snuffed out, while tuberculosis drags its victims through unending suffering.

How can Christmas seals help stop such a seemingly unbeatable disease is a question frequently asked. The best answer is the result obtained by Mrs. Mrs. Clyde Cassidente and Children.

A storm of comment arose in all classes of society throughout the country over the recommendation in the County Court, Denver, before Judge Royal R. Graham in the case of Mrs. Clyde Cassidente, mother of five children and wife of a city employee. The proposal was that Mrs. Cassidente surrender her present children or submit to an operation making her incapable of future motherhood. Judge Graham denied he had issued a positive order, but many in the court so understood him. Mrs. Cassidente was hailed to court by welfare workers to show cause why her children should not be taken from her because of their undernourished condition and the chronic unsanitary condition of their home environment. Dr. Ray Sunderland, a witness, suggested the sterilizing operation, and Mrs. Cassidente was given until January 15 to decide what she will do.

The work of the National Association with its affiliated organizations, of which the Alabama Tuberculosis Association is a part, during the past 15 years in this country.

During that time the death rate from tuberculosis has decreased from 200 per 100,000 to 114 per 100,000. This is a decrease of 43 per cent in that short period. And this was done mainly through educational campaign, the funds of which were provided to the greatest extent by the sale of the Christmas seals.

This work of education is going to be carried on because those who work against tuberculosis believe it can be eradicated, and this is their aim. This year Alabama has agreed to sell 17,500,000 seals to carry on the work among the 60,000 victims of tuberculosis in the state. The death has been about 5,000 a year out of this number, and each year finds it decreasing. But the funds must come from the Christmas seals, and they sell for just one penny each.

MRS. ANDREWS BURIED

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at the Church of God in Albany for Mrs. Mellie Andrews, who died at the Benevolent Hospital Thursday, following a short illness. Mrs. Andrews leaves behind to mourn their loss a husband, one child, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hilburn, a brother and one sister.

A large concourse of friends followed the remains to their last resting place in the city cemetery.

(International News Service)
HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 10.—Over 1,100,000 trees have been set out in forest reserve areas on the island of Maui since 1910, according to figures given out by the Territorial Board of Agriculture and Forestry, which has charge of all forestation work in Hawaii. The trees are being planted for the most part on the lower windward slopes of Haleakala on east Maui, the section of heavy precipitation, with a view to impeding the surface runoff and providing a permanent and steady water supply for the plantations of

Public Spirited F. J. Crampton

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—F. J. Crampton, president of the Alabama Highway Improvement Association, who was elected by the unanimous vote of the members at the reorganization meeting in Birmingham and who is contributing his services as manager of the highway bond amendment campaign which will be voted on January 30, has demonstrated his patriotism to the people of Montgomery in another way.

Work has started on the construction of the Crampton Bowl, which will be the largest and best equipped athletic field in the South, and it will be completed for the season next year. Mr. Crampton donated the site for the field, in addition, contributed the grading, pipe and other materials which will be used in preparing the site for the bowl.

Citizens of Montgomery, following Mr. Crampton's contribution, which was made without strings, raised more than $30,000 with which to match Mr. Crampton's offer and complete the construction of the athletic field.

When the field has been completed Montgomery will be able to entertain any athletic event which comes to the Southern states.

MOON ATTENDS MEET

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Col. Hartley A. Moon, head of the state military department, left today for Washington where he will attend the annual meeting of the heads of state military departments of the United States which will begin Monday and will continue through Friday. Among the important subjects which will be considered at the conference will be the further extension of the national guards, appropriations, organization work and regulations.

The nations of earth are exactly like two fellows who have had trouble and make up and beg each others pardon; they each have their eyes focused on the other, looking for further possible trouble, all the time affecting that they are sure everything is perfectly amiably settled.

If all the water power of the state was harnessed, there would be enough power to operate every industry in her real, perhaps. Republicans are about to draw up a quadruple alliance, and put the U. S. in it, with Japan, France and England as the other members. Well, just so it is not an "entangling alliance." The Republicans are the ones who said the Wilsonian League

The suggestion to completely abandon all forms of chemical warfare as recommended by the official advisory committee to the American arms conference delegates, seems to be in line with awakening on the dawn of a better understanding with the nations of earth, and is a step to the complete abandonment of all warfare.

Now that the crop is safely housed, a number of farmers and saw mill operators all over the county are turning their attention to cross ties, that continue to bring a fair price. During the dull season much revenue from this source is derived by tie cutters. It is no uncommon thing for dealers in the county along the railroad to pay as much as $5,000 per day for ties, when hauling is in full swing.

Briand has been given a vote of confidence on his return from America. This country figuratively speaking tarred and feathered, burned in effigy, and boiled in oil, its President and Premier when he returned from France. A headline says: "Alabama gain takes big honors at cattle show held at Meadow Brook farm, Nashville, Tenn., in competition with twenty five cars of show animals."

To this important industry is due the large revenue that was derived by breeders in central and southern parts of this state, that went a long way toward complete rehabilitation of those sections when the ravages of the boll weevil rendered the planting and growing of cotton ineffective.

That the industry is taking firm hold in other sections is very evident, and the day is not far distant when to feed any other animal but a pure bred will be in bad form.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

St. James says gold "cankers." Mr. Edison speaks almost contemptuously of it. He says gold will be ignored. Edison says, and he speaks for modern science, that the precious metal will become as common as pig iron, and that men will make it as we now make brass or bricks. Edison hints especially at one significant change among the many, to come with the scientific manufacture of gold, namely that gold will cease to function as the king of finance. The gold standard is to fall—that strong hold of autocratic power, of greed, of finance manipulation and of privilege in general. It was gold and interest charges behind the Rothschilds that enabled them to sway the English throne in the past—often times for good, however.

Mankind will not be crucified on Brother Bryan's "cross of gold," for the simple reason it is to cease to exist. King Gold is about to pass, as have so many idle autocrats. As Charles of Hungary leaves his court of ease, so gold is about to be cast out of the temple of our financial system. It may mean the crumbling of many values. Glover Cleveland said in his day if the gold standard was abolished for Mr. Bryan's 16 to 1 Free silver plan, that our "money would shrink up in our pockets." If gold goes, what will we do for money?—will we use diamonds, platinum or cadmium in its place? That question brings us to the constructive idea of this talk—when gold money goes, we must put our "In God we trust," no longer on money, but we must put our trust in those creations of God, called men. Just as its destructive developments have forced us to put the ban on the saloon; just as the terror of war has forced us to ban that evil way of settling differences, just so modern science is going to force us to give up gold and trust the credit of our governments for our medium of values. Threatened national bankruptcy has forced the nations to talk of scrapping their navies; but they are drawing back lest it hurt business. Science is not going to ask any one else, but tomorrow, as Mr. Edison says she is liable to scrap gold, and force us to take the word of mere men and their governments as to what money is—just as we have always done in a measure, but nobody knew it, much. We thought a certain gold reserve secured our paper money. It is well we did and do, just as it was well for the ancient Egyptians to believe in the "sacred bulls" of that country. But the fact is, just and good governments, like just and good individuals have all along walked more or less—by faith. "The just shall walk by faith."

The whole idea is this: We are going to have to trust each other more than we have in the past. Faith is demanding recognition, just as justice and right are demanding recognition. And just as right and justice must have plenty of good and just men, so the new era of faith upon which we must enter perforce, is demanding faithful and dependable men. Finally, the artificial props and securities of the past are going. Gold is no longer to back our bonds, so we must back them with our personalities. In view of the large scope faith is to be given, it is indeed a glorious thing, that a certain mad man, was not allowed to "get away" with the doctrine that a contract—a treaty is nothing more than a "scrap of paper!"

SHE CAN CHANGE 'EM

"How can any man be a woman hater?" asked Miss Oldgirl. "Woman has kissable lips, lovable eyes, a huggable shape and holdable hands."

"Huh!" grunted Mr. Oldbatch. "And she also has changeable hair, removable lips, adjustable eyebrows, colorable lips and a transferable complexion."

"What do you think is the cause of unrest?"

"Haven't noticed any around this place," rejoined Farmer Cornstossel. "The resting part takes care of itself. What I am worried about is unwork."

ARSON CHARGED
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10—(Special)—Cecil Gibson, of Brown, has been arrested on a charge of arson in the first degree as a result of the destruction of a store building at Dixie following an investigation conducted by W. J. Williams, state fire marshal, and assistants. Gibson waived preliminary hearing and his case will be considered by the grand jury the third Monday in March.

Illegal Evidence Avails Nothing

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10—Federal agents, who obtain evidence of violations of federal laws without taking the time to obtain search warrants as their work goes for naught when the grand jury Friday afternoon informed Judge Clayton that it had investigated 42 complaints but had returned only 18 indictments. The grand jury said it had followed implicitly the instructions of the court to disregard every bit of evidence which had been gotten without a search warrant. Judge Clayton, after the report was submitted, said the grand jury had followed the recent ruling of the United States supreme court which held that evidence illegally obtained without search warrants should not be submitted. He declared one law should not be violated in an effort to enforce another. Judge Clayton expressed the fear that some state courts in their zeal to enforce some laws, are permitting violations of others.

WANDA HAWLEY COMES TO THE DELITE MONDAY

Married persons troubled by in-laws or other forms of marital infelicity ought by all means to see "Her Face Value," which will be shown at the Delite tomorrow. It might also be a good plan to take the in-laws along.

"Her Face Value" is essentially a tragedy of in-laws in the home, and proves conclusively that all young married things ought to be left alone to work out their own life plans.

Wanda Hawley, as the chorus-girl heroine who attempts matrimony without first dislodging the family leeches who have always fed her generosity, is an appealing and delightful figure throughout, even though you do wish she would show more firmness in handling her shiftless father and brother, who have always imposed on her good nature and continue to do so after she marries, until they have quite effectually wrecked her little dove cote. The conclusion of this little domestic tragedy is unusual but convincing. You leave the theatre admitting that in-laws ought to be allowed to live—only not with nor off young married pairs.

"SENTIMENTAL TOMMY"
AT THE DELITE TUESDAY
"Sentimental Tommy," which comes to the Delite Theatre Tuesday, has a cast which embraces several of the best players of the stage and screen. Included in this cast are May McAvoy, Mabel Taliaferro, George Fawcett and others.

Gareth Hughes, who is seen in the title role, is a young Welshman, who came to America in 1914 with an English company and has since displayed such marked talent that he is recognized as a leading juvenile of the country. He was chosen out of hundreds of possibilities for an exacting role in "Caliban," which was given at the City College Stadium, New York, for the Shakespeare Tercenary celebration.

JIGGS AND MAGGIE COME TO THE PRINCESS TUESDAY
Probably no musical comedy devised, written and presented during the past decade can boast of a typically humorous and side-splitting plot as "Bringing Up Father in Wall Street," the new George McManus triumph which will be the attraction at the Princess Theatre Tuesday, December 13. From the rise of the curtain to the very finish action, surprise, novelty and original endeavor are manifest. Unlike other offerings of a similar trend, the conclusion of termination of the play is not obvious. It is one of those affairs in which one is anxious to wait for the finale and then feel sorry that it is all over. Jiggs Mahoney, the "father" in the case, is probably the most beloved character in the realm of comics. And in this offering he has plenty of opportunity to display those talents which have ingratiated him with the vast of admirers who have sworn allegiance all these moons. Jiggs, of course, dabbles in Wall street and, unlike some of his prototypes in real life, actually comes out first best. The result is that he emerges a millionaire. There is a preponderance of pretty women, catchy melodies, stunning costumes, genuine fun, laughter, tears of mirth, screams and entertainment de luxe.

S. R. O. SIGN AGAIN FOR LISTEN IRENE

(Salina Daily Union)
If the opening performance of the Grand Theatre last night, "Listen Irene," can be used as a basis of judgment, the season of 1921-22 bids fair to be one of the most successful the theatre has enjoyed for years, for certainly the initial offering was worthy of more than passing comment. Not only was the show far above the standard offering of this type, but the size of the audience assured the management that the show going folks of Salina are ready for the new season's offering. Long before the curtain it was necessary to hang out the standing room only sign and the choice seats were snapped up early.

As for the production itself, it was head and shoulders above the majority of musical comedies and incidentally one of the happiest and most pleasing little performances seen at the Grand Theatre in many a day. Salina was watched, with mingled emotions, the coming and going of a countless procession of musical shows, good, bad and indifferent, but "Listen Irene" deserved a category all its own; it should be placed among the very best that has yet visited Salina. As this particular vehicle does not depend upon vulgarity and suggestiveness for approval but on the contrary was agreeably free from either; it follows that its claims for commendation must be legitimate. And such was the truth in this case.

It was an unusually capable company that presented "Listen Irene" here, both as principals and chorus. Ace Wingfield, in the role of Lieutenant Hamilton, together with Miss Nyra Brown, as "Irene" were the leading characters and they were surrounded with a splendid cast of principals and chorus folks. Johnny Getz, the inimitable nut comedian, kept the audience in smiles constantly and is possibly the funniest character yet seen in musical comedies here. Only praise in like measure can be given the entire cast.

There are 32 members in the cast. As a whole "Listen Irene" is one of the best if not the best seen in musical comedies, being classed as 100 per cent in costumes, snappy singing, comedy and harmonious setting.

THE HOME KITCHEN

How You Can Make Christmas Candies Really Fine Gifts

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

HOME-MADE boxes and bags for the Christmas gift plans or make a good cook who intends to make her candy as well as do her shopping early. These candy boxes can be made of silk, embroidered linen or painted, crumpled, pasted on old boxes, and fastened with pretty ribbon ties. As the home cook rarely if ever is able to compete with professional makers of chocolate confections, it is wise to buy the chocolate. But there are some fine candies almost any one can make at home.

Chinese Peanut Candy.
Shell a pound of peanuts and put them into a hot pan for ten minutes, then remove the red skins. Put a cup of water into the hot pan with a pound of sugar and cook to a heavy syrup, add the peanuts, and mix well, turn onto a board and roll to a half-inch thickness, then cut into squares of the size desired.

Royal Creams.
Boil two cups of sugar with a half-pint of heavy cream until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water, and stir continuously to keep from scorching. Add a dessert-spoonful of pistachio flavoring, and turn into a buttered pan. When nearly cold mark off in squares and place a pistachio nut in the center of each square.

Raisin Cakes.
Put two cups of pure sugar, syrup into a saucepan with one tablespoonful of vinegar and cook until a little crust in cold water is brittle, then stir in a quarter-cupful each of seeded raisins and finely chopped pecans. Pour into a buttered pan, and when cold break in convenient pieces with a small hammer. This makes a wholesome hard candy which children like.

Buy a bottle of soft fresh prunes and stone them. Prepare a mixture of chopped nuts and marshmallow, and stuff the prunes with it. Boil two cups of sugar syrup—maple will do—adding one teaspoonful of vinegar. Try in cold water, and when it comes to the brittle state remove from the fire and with a pick or two-tined fork, dip the stuffed prunes into the syrup until thoroughly covered, then lay them on wax paper to harden. Wrap each when hard and dry in wax papers, and stow away. These candies keep nicely.

Foreign Fruit Bars.
Put one cupful each of seeded raisins, walnuts, fresh figs, stoned dates, candied cherries, candied peels and a quarter-cupful of angelica through the food chopper. Add to the fruit a tablespoonful each of lemon and orange juice, then work the mixture to a paste. Spread the paste about an inch thick in a pan wet with cold water, cover with wax paper, lay on a heavy weight and let stand twenty-four hours. Cut into bars and roll in powdered nut meats.

itable nut comedian, kept the audience in smiles constantly and is possibly the funniest character yet seen in musical comedies here. Only praise in like measure can be given the entire cast.

There are 32 members in the cast. As a whole "Listen Irene" is one of the best if not the best seen in musical comedies, being classed as 100 per cent in costumes, snappy singing, comedy and harmonious setting.

Why Circulate Evil Tales?
Never tell evil of a man if you do not know it for a certainty, and if you know it for a certainty then ask yourself, "Why should I tell it?"—Layster.

Tribute Is Paid to Alice Bowles

The following tribute to Miss Alice Prudence Bowles, a lovable young woman, is clipped from The Daily Journal, East St. Louis, and fittingly portrays her beautiful character in both mind and heart.

She was a cousin of T. A. Bowles, cashier of Central National Bank, and spent her childhood days here, where she was held in the very highest esteem and her memory in the minds of those who knew her will linger as a sweet incense, because of her lovable character and many things connected with her life that bound her to her friends with hooks of steel.

On Nov. 25, at 9 o'clock in the evening, Alice Prudence Bowles, aged 19, the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Bowles, and the devoted sister of Gordon Ward, Florence E. and Albert B. Bowles, passed away at the family home, 1101 College avenue.

Alice Prudence Bowles, the bravest little warrior that ever stepped into the arena of life, went to meet her Maker with the same bright smile with which she met the buffets of fate. High of courage, generous of heart, with honor that never wavered, she was loved by all who knew her—a natural leader who led by love.

During her short life she was, both by school and college mates, unusually honored, winning distinction in studies and athletics. During her high school course, which she completed in three years, she won the loving cup awarded the victor in the singles of the Central States Tennis Tournament.

In the fall of 1919 she went to Westhampton College in Richmond, Va., where she spent two years. Here again she made her mark in athletics, winning, both years, the tennis championship of the college, and playing a splendid game of hockey. In her sophomore year she was captain of her class hockey team which won the championship for the year 1920-21; she played on the varsity, and she was a member of the Athletic Board. In the social life of the college she was just as active, taking part in the work of the current events, English and music clubs, and serving on the Student Government Council. In her sophomore year her class bestowed upon her its greatest gift—the class presidency, the duties of which office she discharged admirably.

Returning to her home she secured a position in the Livingston, (Ill.) high school, where in the short space of a month and a half she endeared herself to her pupils and to her associates. It was while here that sinus trouble developed, which followed, as it was, by serious complications, resulted in her death. She submitted herself to the surgeon's knife with the same high courage with which she went into a tennis tournament, never flinching, never doubting. High spirited, with head erect and with eyes shining, she endured her intense suffering as she had met every lesser difficulty. A great lover of Edward Guest's poetry, his little poem, "Sometime You Will Understand," was found in her pocket after she had passed away.

Countless such tributes from pupils, associates and friends bear witness to the love and esteem with which she was regarded. It is said that the eyes are the light of the soul. One could see in Alice's big black eyes sparkling with mirth or suffused with tears, a great soul.

We all mourn the passing of this bright life, but we rejoice in the knowledge that her devoted Christian life will be comfort and inspiration to all who knew her. She is happier today than the sorrowing ones who are left.

I pay this tribute to Alice after having known her from childhood on, voicing the sentiment of all who knew her. (Signed) GEO. M. BRIGHAM.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Fifteen Days' Notice

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Features Service, Inc.

IN California they're talking about a new law. Something that will compel people who intend to marry to publish that intention at least before such a ceremony can be performed.

What do you think of the idea? Rather practical and rather good, it seems to me. Of course, there are cases where it wouldn't work just right, but usually, a wedding which can't be announced fifteen days ahead shouldn't be a wedding at all.

There's the silly little girl who runs away with the adventurer and wakes up when it's too late. There's the man who has a spat with his real sweetheart, meets some reckless girl who's crazy to be married, and marries her on a minute's notice—out of spite.

There's the rich old widower, who meets the adventuress on the train, steps off at the station and marries her, to die a miserable wreck in less than a year.

Who Would Be Affected?

There's the rich widow, coming home from visiting her grandchildren. She's the one who meets a shiny-haired entertainer at a hotel cafe, and marries him, and brings humiliation and disgrace upon herself and her unfortunate children—to say nothing of the grandchildren.

There's the wedding—just for a lark.

Winifred Black

There are the two or three young couples with nothing else to do, who leave the picnic and drive to the county seat and are married—and regret it the rest of their lives.

All these cases would be prevented by the new law they're trying to get in California.

Who would be affected by it—really?

Girls under age, who want to marry against their parents' consent—boys not yet twenty-one, who simply can't wait another day to call little Tottie Coughdrop—wife.

Childish old men, running away from their families. Silly old women trying to grasp at the vision of youth and love, and call it back at the verge of the grave.

Who else would be affected?

No one that I can see.

The Old Adage

"Marry in haste, repent at leisure." What a lot there is in some of those old proverbs! The man who wrote that proverb certainly had seen something of runaway weddings in his day. Oh, yes, some of them turn out very happily—but that's in spite of the fact that they were runaway—and not because of it.

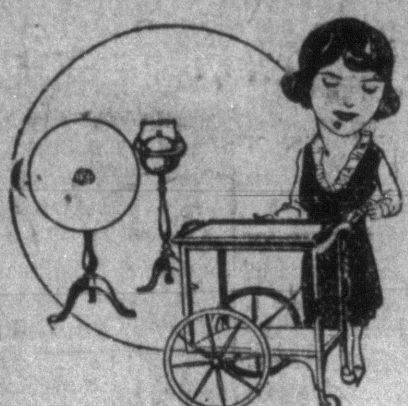

Yes, I'm for the fifteen days' notice, myself. I think it might help to prevent a lot of misery, or at least a great deal of humiliation and something very much like disgrace.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

The Way the Wounded Trooper Reached the Hospital.

A CROSS Capt. Hastings' face swept the look of amazed defiance which the sight of Lillian's badge denoting her rank in the secret diplomatic service always brings to the initiated. There followed instantly another look, that of relief, which told me how much the threat of Smith to communicate with a higher troop officer at Kingston had affected the youth.

"If you know what's good for you, Smith," he called out cavalierly, "you'll look at this before you start anything." I noticed the loungers eye each other in amazement that any one should dare to treat the great man of the region with anything else but awe and respect. But their astonishment must have been deepened when Smith stalked toward the car, craned his neck around Hastings, and looked at the badge. I was watching him closely, and I saw that he not only recognized its meaning, but that it carried an especially alarming message to him. He gazed up at me with eyes like those of an animal which sees some unexpected danger.

"Where did—what?" he stammered. With a sudden impulse—indeed, it was as if I were impelled by something outside myself—I leaned across Capt. Hastings, speaking slowly, incisively.

"Never mind where I obtained this. Simply remember that I have it, and that I never forget faces—or voices." I sent the car forward as I spoke the last word, but not too soon to see the party palor which had replaced his high flush. I knew that Capt. Hastings was looking at me curiously, although I did not turn my eyes toward him. And we had gone two miles down this road before he spoke.

"All is discovered!" "I wonder if you would be willing to tell me what you meant by that last speech to Smith?" he asked a bit diffidently.

"Sorry," I returned dubiously, "but as I don't really know what I meant myself, I couldn't. It just occurred to me that he was altogether too interested in fastening this attack on us, and the fantastic notion came to me that he might have had something to do with it himself. And—oh, well, you know the old rule of sending the telegram with 'All is discovered, fly at once,' to a dozen men selected at random, don't you?"

"And having three of them skid to parts unknown upon the receipt of the wire!" he answered with a laugh in his voice. "But I'm afraid you are on the

involving marketing for export of about 1,000,000 bales, latest figures of the war financed corporation today disclosed.

Officials said that while the sum advanced is relatively small, in comparison with the total value of the crop, the effect of the financing by the corporation, has strengthened confidence among manufacturers and dealers as well as the banks which make loans on cotton as collateral security.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon expressed optimism over the ultimate good which will come of this and other agricultural financing.

SERVICE AFTER THE CAR IS BOUGHT IS EFFORT OF DODGE

"Service after the car is bought—in other words, performance," said Frank Harris, "is one of the features which is attracting many Tennessee Valley motorists to the Dodge. Their slogan of 'the first cost is practically the last' is particularly appealing, apparently at this time when the general public seems determined to find the best value for their money."

America Leads in Cement Use.

Although Portland cement was patented by Mr. Aspin, an English engineer, and reinforced concrete is credited to a Frenchman, America has made the most use of them. The manufacture of Portland cement has been brought to the highest state of perfection in this country, and our use of concrete now ranges from the watering trough to the Panama canal. Use of cement has made possible the impressive architectural effect of vast and lofty interiors unencumbered by miers and columns.

She Meant Well.

To say the fitting thing in acknowledgment of a favor is something of a tax on the conversational powers of most people; when the recipient is unfamiliar with the conventional phrases used or gets confused in using them, comical situations occur, as in this instance reported in Harper's Magazine. Two sisters of a deceased cook called to acknowledge the flowers sent by the family. "We came to thank you for those beautiful flowers that you sent for sister," said the elder woman; and then, with a little stutter, she added, "and we hope soon to be able to return the favor."—From the Outlook.

WOCO PEP STILL GAINING FRIENDS OVER THE VALLEY

Woco Pep still is gaining friends over the Tennessee Valley, according to officials of the Woco Pep company of Morgan county, which is handling the product here, together with the Wofford oils.

"Hardly a day passes but there are quite a few converts to Pep for 'more power and less carbon,'" said an official of the company.

"Since we began business here, the use of Pep has spread among motorists of all this section. Our city trade has been extremely satisfactory and the support we are getting from neighboring communities and from motorists of the rural sections has been highly pleasing.

"We believed when we brought Pep here that it would prove popular with local motorists, as it had done in other sections where it had been marketed, but the degree of that popularity has given us much satisfaction."

NEWS OF MOULTON AND LAWRENCE COUNTY

MOULTON, Dec. 10.—(Special)—The Moulton Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 7th, at 2:30 o'clock when Miss Melba Lucile Holdridge was married to Mr. Wilbur C. Bragg. The church was filled with friends before the beginning of the musical program rendered by Mrs. A. J. Crosswhite and Mrs. John F. Yarbrough, Jr., who sang "Dreaming of Love and You."

Banks of ferns and evergreens artistically arranged over the altar and chancel furnishing the background for the fragrant white narcissi held in cut glass bowls were softened by the glow of pink and white candles.

Rev. W. L. Holdridge, pastor of the M. E. church and father of the bride officiated, saying the ring ceremony.

Mendelssohn wedding march announced the bridal party, Miss Lillian Moody, of Birmingham, gowned in black velvet and lace, with picture hat, carrying an arm bouquet of pink Killarney roses, entered with Mr. Emmett Stockton, of Moulton. They were followed by Miss Myrie Almon, attired in a lovely dress of black canton crepe with hat of black and gold lace, carrying an arm bouquet of pink Killarney roses, entered with Mr. L. B. Cropper Little Racine Delashaw, niece of the groom, in a dainty frock of pink crepe de chine, as ring-bearer, entered with little Mary Elizabeth Holdridge, sister of the bride, fairy-like in white crepe de chine, scattered rose petals in the pathway of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Pascal Holdridge. She wore a becoming going-away suit of brown moussine with mole-skin fur trimming with hat of gold lace and fur, and accessories to match. The arm bouquet was of brides roses and white narcissi. The bride was met at the altar by Mr. Bragg, attended by his brother, Dr. John Bragg, of Albany, where mid the soft strains of "The Flower Song," the impressive ceremony was spoken.

Mrs. Bragg, who was recently crowned Queen of Lawrence county, is the popular daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Holdridge. Mr. Bragg is a prominent young man engaged in banking in Moulton. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bragg left for Mobile. They will be at home after December thirteenth with Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Holdridge.

Thieves have again taken cotton from the buyers of Moulton. On last Tuesday night two bales were taken that had just been purchased by Burch Bros. Careful watch has been kept during the remainder of the week at railway points, but so far no clue has been found. Only recently two bales were stolen, one from Herman Hill and one from Will Heflin, neither of which have been found.

John F. Yarbrough, county agent, and Mr. Basch, of Florence, have been engaged during the week in securing members for the farm bureau. They have been very successful in this val-

FORD ECONOMICAL AS PATROL WAGON AND AMBULANCE

The city council of Bakersfield, California, recently purchased a Ford patrol wagon. The body, of course, is mounted on a new standard Ford chassis. The city completed the transaction after receiving several bids, the bid of the Ford dealer in the locality, G. Haberfelde, being the most satisfactory.

The patrol wagon will also be used for ambulance duties. The total cost of the truck including starter was $1,384. Commenting on the addition to the Bakersfield municipal equipment, one of the city's newspapers says:

"In the presence of Chief of Police Charles H. Stone and five other members of the police department, and George Haberfelde, proprietor of the Ford garage, the official 'hurry-up wagon' or 'Black Maria,' a new glistening Ford with a special body was christened.

"The appurtenances of the new patrol wagon are modern in every respect. Thick wire screen covers the enclosure, which can be used either as a temporary jail or an ambulance. In case of rain or wind, there are curtains that can be dropped over the sides. On the rear is affixed a platform large enough to carry two giant policemen.

"As the new possession was transferred from the Ford garage, it was greeted with acclaim by passing spectators. C. A. Dorman, local photographer, snapped the 'boys' as they lined up to the side of the vehicle, which can be seen for some distance, because of the labeling in gold letters, 'Bakersfield Police Department'."

STILLS DESTROYED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 10.—(Special)—Reports of the destruction of three stills in Cleburne county and one in Houston county were received by the state law enforcement department from field agents today. Twenty-five gallons of liquor were confiscated and 3000 gallons of mash were poured out in the Cleburne raids while four persons were arrested on a charge of operating stills in violation of the bone dry law. Twenty gallons of beer were confiscated and one person arrested in the raid in Houston county.

Healthy Calling.

Of eight English clergymen whose deaths were recorded in one week a short time ago, the ages aggregated 500 years, the oldest being ninety-two and the youngest fifty-seven, writes a correspondent. This high average of just under seventy-four years is either an uncommon record or attests the longevity of the "cloth."

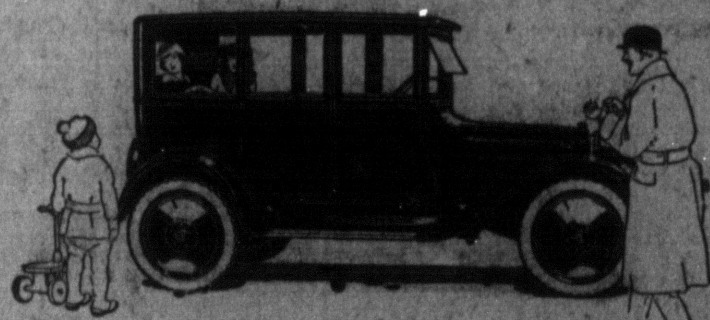

Loving Cups For Sellers of Seals

Two loving cups will be presented by Birmingham jewelers for sellers of Christmas seals in the schools of the state, the local organization announced Saturday. One of the cups will be awarded to some county school and the other to some city school.

Writing Materials.

One must always be reminded of the quill by the word "pen," because that word comes from the Latin "penna," which meant "feather," and in this connection it is interesting to note that our word "pencil" comes from the Latin "pencilus," which meant "a little brush" or the tail or "brush" of an animal. Also let us be reminded that the Romans called their black ink, blacking, and that our word "ink" comes to us through the French from "encrement," which was the red ink used by Roman emperors.
